1. Tell me about the last time you had to plan something, like a party or event. Follow up: Walk me through your process.

- They planned a birthday party for themselves along with the help of their parents. First began with setting up invitations with the time and date confirmed as well as the location of it, decided on a personal home and not a relative to be more cautious or comfortable in case of accidents that may occur. The food was ultimately up to the birthday person; however, they were also thinking of something easy that everyone would like. The food just depended on the amount of people going. Didn't really plan for "activities" more of just vibing and talking amongst each other. The food was split among different people to bring certain ingredients or condiments.

2. Walk me through how you keep track of details when planning.

- Keep track of how many people are going to be attending and then get the right amount of food. All being written on a sheet a paper/list to have it mapped out.

3. Tell me about the best party that you have been to, could you have made it better? (Vice versa)

- (Best) They had a very fun time at a last-minute planned birthday party. It was a party that went with the flow, not many set times or plans for just going with the flow of everyone's vibes. Enjoyed the fact that everyone can be engaged and gossip in a small environment. Original plan was not working and had to be changed, liked the fact that feedback and communication was good. They would have liked the original plan to work out, so time was a thing that they wish could have planned better.

4. What factors do you consider when planning an event?

- Time, people/attendance, location, the reason.
- In personal order = the reason, time/date, people/attendance, location

5. What do you consider the hardest part of planning social gatherings/events/parties?

- Getting people to attend the event, kind of more of getting people to show up on time so time/date can be the hardest as a close second

6. What things do you think make a good party? Entertainment, Food, etc.

- Overall, they do not mind where or what is going on if the right people or enough people are there. Also depends on the event if its more people.

1. Tell me about the last time you had to plan something, like a party or event. Follow up: Walk me through your process.

- He had planned their father's birthday party, discussed it with other members to ensure it is okay. He had ordered food to pick up and eat at home, discussed the time. The person they were throwing it for was someone they are used to as to how they like to celebrate and what they like.

2. Walk me through how you keep track of details when planning.

- He likes to make lists on their phone/tablet, a checklist to go through and see what needs to be done.

3. Tell me about the best party that you have been to, could you have made it better? (Vice versa)

- (Worst) When he was in the navy, their friend had planned a house party that had more talking than activities. He had already worked with his friend a lot and there wasn't much to talk about since it resulted in talking more. So overall having more activities to do and having people engaged would be what could have made it better.

4. What factors do you consider when planning an event?

- Location *mostly their place*, food/menu, activities.

5. What do you consider the hardest part of planning social gatherings/events/parties?

- Having people agree on a time/date, getting feedback on ideas for food/activities. Overall prefer getting input first before offering suggestions. Date/time is the hardest part first.

6. What things do you think make a good party? Entertainment, Food, etc.

- A good environment, having different options that cater to everyone such as drinks/food/activities. Entertainment is number one.

1. Tell me about the last time you had to plan something, like a party or event. Follow up: Walk me through your process.
  - Had a summer party where multiple people were discussed as to what activities or plan for the party, wanted a slide, certain food, discussed different time/date since not many can have a workable schedule for it. Finally got to the right date/time, used a app to create the invitation regarding info for the party and sent out to people. It was a mess the closer the date got since not many things were already ready or prepared such as food, speakers, renting a porta-potty, borrow a grill, contact DJs for entertainment. It was a lot of un-coordination, no written check list or way to track it.
2. Walk me through how you keep track of details when planning.
  - Create a group chat to communicate what was needed and what had already gotten. If to plan things alone, make a long list on a notepad with all the details.
3. Tell me about the best party that you have been to, could you have made it better? (Vice versa)
  - (Worst) Went to a party with family, there were a lot of people at this party. Not much food was planned for this amount of people, she would have planned better to have more food. Would have some options to offer for others that don't or can't eat what is on the menu.
4. What factors do you consider when planning an event?
  - The attendance, the budget, food amount & menu, have people either provide or have others bring dishes, have control of what goes and what doesn't
5. What do you consider the hardest part of planning social gatherings/events/parties?
  - Having to have a rough draft but also actually implementing. Mainly the actual planning aspect.
6. What things do you think make a good party? Entertainment, Food, etc.
  - Entertainment such as music, activities, and engagement. Good food, things that doesn't run out.

| Phase (1 or 2) | 2               | Idea or problem area | Party Planner |

1. Tell me about the last time you had to plan something, like a party or event. Follow up: Walk me through your process.
  - They planned their own party for their birthday, they wanted to make sure that all the people he wanted to go could make it, he wanted for everyone to be comfortable, asked close friend to borrow their house to host their party, discussed with others to know what they would like to eat, planned how many chairs they would need for everyone that he wanted to go, and also try to plan activities to where everyone can enjoy themselves.
2. Walk me through how you keep track of details when planning.
  - They liked to use their notes app on their phone to keep track of things, who was invited, how much food, how many foods, who was brining what and who was asked to bring, tracked the time and address of the location, checking supplies for their personal things to bring to the party, and the budget overall.
3. Tell me about the best party that you have been to, could you have made it better? (Vice versa)
  - (Worst) Their 24th Birthday party, not that they didn't have a good time or day, they wanted to make sure that their location was already set up properly and not have last minute help or unprepared party, wanted to have others to bring certain drinks/food, planning more things out in regard to activities and engagement. They tend to focus more on others if they enjoy it rather than himself.
4. What factors do you consider when planning an event?
  - Enjoyment wants more positives than negatives, there is enough food for everyone, making sure the location has enough room for attendance that may show up, entertainment and activities for better engagement and have a better time, there is food for everyone and there is something for everyone.
5. What do you consider the hardest part of planning social gatherings/events/parties?
  - Time/date is the hardest part for them since they are wishing for everyone to attend if possible, budget plays a factor due to the amount of attendance expected, having a clear mind when planning so that no stress or as much "brain power" will be used to plan it, location if it is something that must be rented to watch for the budget as well, and have as many people as engaged and appreciated for attending.
6. What things do you think make a good party? Entertainment, Food, etc.
  - The people overall, mainly the attendance. The more people can make it a much more eventful party for them.

1. Tell me about the last time you had to plan something, like a party or event. Walk me through your process.

The last thing I planned was a birthday dinner for one of my friends. I first asked everyone what days they were available, then looked for restaurants that could fit our group. After we picked one, I made a group chat, sent everyone the location and time, and tried to get a final head count. I also looked into doing something afterward, like bowling or going to a bar, but we ended up deciding that pretty late.

2. Walk me through how you keep track of details when planning.

Usually I use my phone's Notes app and a group chat. I might write down the guest list, prices, places I'm considering, and things that still need to be done. The annoying part is that information gets scattered between texts, screenshots, websites, and my notes, so sometimes I have to go back and look for something.

3. Tell me about the best party that you have been to. Could you have made it better? Vice versa.

One of the best ones I went to was a graduation party because there was good food, music, games, and enough space for everyone. Everything seemed organized without feeling too scheduled. The only thing I would have improved was having more seating because later in the night there weren't enough chairs for everyone.

4. What factors do you consider when planning an event?

Probably the number of people, everyone's availability, budget, location, food, parking, and what people are actually going to do at the event. I also think about how far people have to drive and whether the place can comfortably fit everyone.

5. What do you consider the hardest part of planning social gatherings/events/parties?

Getting people to actually confirm whether they're coming. Sometimes people say "maybe" or don't respond until the last minute, and that makes it difficult to know how much food to get or whether you need a bigger table or reservation. Finding places can also take a lot of time because I'm comparing prices, reviews, availability, and locations across different websites.

6. What things do you think make a good party? Entertainment, food, etc.?

Good food is important, but I think the biggest thing is making sure people have something to do and feel comfortable. Music, games, or some kind of activity helps. The location also matters because if it's too crowded or inconvenient, people probably won't stay as long. I think good organization beforehand makes everything feel easier once the party actually starts.

- How often do you travel? Probably once every couple of years.
- What form of travel do you prefer? I like to drive there if possible
- What do you find difficult about traveling and the planning process of arranging a trip?
Finding the time that works for the whole family
- What are some of the expenses that you have to take in mind during these travels?
Transportation, entertainment, food, things like that
- How much time do you spend researching before your trip? What sites are you visiting?
We usually already know where we are going
- Do you travel as much as you wish you did? What is stopping you if not? No, I wish we traveled more but the timing usually doesn't work for someone.
- Would you use an app that gives you the most affordable flights, hotel, nearby restaurants, event tickets? I would think about it but depending on the offers available on the site. If it's cheaper.

- How often do you travel? I would say twice a year
- What form of travel do you prefer? I mostly fly, unless it's very close
- What do you find difficult about traveling and the planning process of arranging a trip?
Finding a price that works, also agreeing on a spot with my partner
- What are some of the expenses that you have to take in mind during these travels? Food and whatever it's gonna cost where we are going.
- How much time do you spend researching before your trip? What sites are you visiting? I don't usually do the research but my partner does it and decides for the two of us.
- Do you travel as much as you wish you did? What is stopping you if not? I could travel more, but I am comfortable if it stays the same. Timing and money.
- Would you use an app that gives you the most affordable flights, hotel, nearby restaurants, event tickets? I would probably use something like that, especially if it gave recommendations.

- How often do you travel? I haven't in years
- What form of travel do you prefer? I used to drive when I drove
- What do you find difficult about traveling and the planning process of arranging a trip?
Health issues and family issues

- What are some of the expenses that you have to take in mind during these travels? Accommodations with the driving cart for me to move around. Finding places with ramps.
- How much time do you spend researching before your trip? What sites are you visiting? I usually give a phone call to the venues or restaurants to figure out if I'm gonna have a hard time getting in.
- Do you travel as much as you wish you did? What is stopping you if not? I think I traveled enough in my life.
- Would you use an app that gives you the most affordable flights, hotel, nearby restaurants, event tickets? I would think about it if it gave indications of places with ramps and stuff.

1. Question 1: Tell me about the last time you had to plan something, like a party or event.
Follow up: Walk me through your process.
Answer: I had to plan a party for my son recently, since he is little we made it themed.
2. Question 2: Walk me through how you keep track of details when planning.

Answer: I keep track of how much money each thing is, how much I have left over, and how many people will be attending.
3. Question 3: Tell me about the best party that you have been to, could you have made it better? (Vice versa)
Answer: I like all the parties we plan where the whole family gets to go, but that usually means a bigger room or venue.
4. Question 4: What factors do you consider when planning an event?
Answer: Costs, theme, amount of people coming, food.
5. Question 5: What do you consider the hardest part of planning social gatherings/ events/parties?
Answer: Getting together at a time that works best for everyone. Figuring out cost and where its going to be.
6. Question 6: What things make a good party? Entertainment, Food, etc
Answer: Definitely the food is my number one choice, the food has to be on point for a good get together.

1. How often do you travel?

-I travel several times a year, both for vacations and to visit family. I especially enjoy international travel and trips to Mexico.

2. What form of travel do you prefer?

-I prefer flying for longer trips because it saves time. Once I arrive, I'm comfortable using ride share, renting a car, or public transportation depending on the destination. For shorter trips, I'm also comfortable driving.

3. What do you find difficult about traveling and the planning process of arranging a trip?

-The biggest challenge is finding the best combination of price, convenience, and quality. There are so many options for flights, hotels, transportation, restaurants, and activities that it can take a lot of research to figure out the best overall deal.

4. What are some of the expenses that you have to take in mind during these travels?

-Flights, hotels, transportation, rental cars, food, activities, event tickets, parking, baggage fees, travel insurance, resort fees, taxes, tips, and currency exchange fees.

5. How much time do you spend researching before your trip? What sites are you visiting?

-I spend quite a bit of time researching, especially for bigger trips. I usually compare Google Flights, airline and hotel websites, travel sites, Google Maps, TripAdvisor, Reddit, YouTube, and credit card travel portals. I also compare using points versus paying cash.

6. Do you travel as much as you wish you did? What is stopping you if not?

-Not as much as I would like. I would definitely travel more if time and cost weren't factors. The biggest limitations are the overall cost, coordinating time off work, and the amount of planning that goes into each trip.

7. Would you use an app that gives you the most affordable flights, hotel, nearby restaurants, event tickets?

-Yes, absolutely. I would use an app like that if it actually saved me money and time. Having everything in one place would be really convenient instead of having to check several different websites. It would be even better if it compared cash prices and points and showed the overall cost of the trip.

| Phase (1 or 2) | Phase 2 | Idea or problem area | Travel  |  |

1. How often do you travel?

-I travel about 2-3 times per year. I try to space them out about 4—5 months apart.

2. What form of travel do you prefer?

-I always prefer to fly. If it is close enough I'll roadtrip but I hardly choose to.

3. What do you find difficult about traveling and the planning process of arranging a trip?

-The thing I find difficult about traveling is finding a way to organize myself and what I need to do and or get done before I leave. It is also hard to keep all reservations in one place. Having to open different apps to get reservations when it comes time to check in can be tedious and annoying.

4. What are some of the expenses that you have to take in mind during these travels?

-The expenses that I need to keep in mind are air fair, hotel, car rentals, food and miscellaneous things like events I'm attending. I like to explore cities especially if I have never been there, so things may become costly. If I'm not renting a car, Lyft is my preferred ride share app and these rides can add up as well.

5. How much time do you spend researching before your trip? What sites are you visiting?

-I spend quite some time researching when I'm going to travel. I read an extensive amount of reviews on websites, watch TikTok videos, and scour the internet for weeks before I decide. I use actual websites for hotels and airlines as well as car rental places. I have loyalty membership accounts for a few places, so I tend to use them when I travel. I have recently been using Expedia a lot as they tend to have some good deals.

6. Do you travel as much as you wish you did? What is stopping you if not?

-I do not travel as much as I wish I did, however I have been traveling more than I usually have in the past. I have more responsibilities now, like work and kids, therefore I can't travel as much as I would like to.

7. Would you use an app that gives you the most affordable flights, hotel, nearby restaurants, event tickets?

-Yes, if an app had all of these things in one place I would love to use it.

| Phase (1 or 2) | Phase 2 | Idea or problem area | Travel  |  |

1. How often do you travel?

-About 1-2 times a year.

2. What form of travel do you prefer?

-Depends on distance. Typically airplane.

3. What do you find difficult about traveling and the planning process of arranging a trip?

-Building a cohesive itinerary. One that takes in consideration distance between hotel and attractions, restaurants and such. Also hotel reviews are important for me.

4. What are some of the expenses that you have to take in mind during these travels?

-Hotel prices, I don't do AirBnB. Food, transportation and spending around money. Along with renting a car or not. Depending on my trip

5. How much time do you spend researching before your trip? What sites are you visiting?

-Reddit for attractions and fun spots. Agoda for hotel booking and AA for airplanes. Either AA or Southwest for flights since I am a member with them. And Notion to build an itinerary.

6. Do you travel as much as you wish you did? What is stopping you if not?

-Not as much as I would want to but once a year for the past 2-3 years I have been able to do a one big trip and smaller trips here and there. Money is stopping

7. Would you use an app that gives you the most affordable flights, hotel, nearby restaurants, event tickets?

-The app would have to take in consideration attractions to do around the area. Google Maps allows for lists to be created with “pins” on the spots I am interested. This is what I use to get an idea of what I’d like to do and where I’d like to go. If a feature like that is in the app then yes. On top of the attractions that surround the area.

| Phase (1 or 2) | Phase 2 | Idea or problem area | Travel  |  |

1. How often do you travel?

-Since I have kids it harder....maybe, 2-3 times a year. But I wish it would be more often.

2. What form of travel do you prefer?

-Vacationing at a beach, going to an amusement park, or for concerts.

3. What do you find difficult about traveling and the planning process of arranging a trip?

-Traveling with kids can be challenging. From getting their luggage ready to find family friendly activities inclusive for children.

-I like to wake up early and go for a walk to explore the area I'm visiting. I like to have breakfast either at a local place and usually plan on a hotel that offers continental breakfast. My wife on the other hand prefers to sleep in, with no walks, no breakfast.

4. What are some of the expenses that you have to take in mind during these travels?

-Personal souvenirs (we do not buy souvenirs for other family members, but we like to buy stuff for us). We tend to go somewhere for additional "entertainment" that was not part of the plan it could be bowling, drinking, zoo, shopping.

5. How much time do you spend researching before your trip? What sites are you visiting?

-I spend +10 hours in total doing my research from traveling, stay, attractions, and site seeing. In addition to that my wife probably spends +5 hours. It would be cool if the app would allow you to "invite" a friend and add suggestions rather than having to send a "look at this" text message. Messages get lost with other day-to-day conversations.

6. Do you travel as much as you wish you did? What is stopping you if not?

-No. I wish I could travel a bit more often 4-5 times within the US per year OR plan for a trip in the US and a trip outside the US.

-Children and other expenses.

7. Would you use an app that gives you the most affordable flights, hotel, nearby restaurants, event tickets?

-Most definitely. I would like to know what locals do, eat, and go to places that we may not see as a "sponsored" hit in google.

| Phase (1 or 2) | Phase 2 | Idea or problem area | Travel  |  |

1. How often do you travel?

-I usually travel about 2–3 times a year. It really depends on what I have planned and how much I am able to spend at the time.

2. What form of travel do you prefer?

-It depends on the distance. If it's somewhere farther away, I prefer flying, but if it's a reasonable distance, I don't mind driving.

3. What do you find difficult about traveling and the planning process of arranging a trip?

-The biggest difficulty for me is budgeting and managing how much I'm going to spend. I have to make sure I plan ahead so I don't end up spending more than I expected.

4. What are some of the expenses that you have to take in mind during these travels?

-Some of the expenses I think about are food, gifts, party expenses, and other miscellaneous costs. A lot of the smaller expenses can add up pretty quickly during a trip.

5. How much time do you spend researching before your trip? What sites are you visiting?

-I usually spend a few hours researching, but I spread it out across a few days instead of doing it all at once. Most of my trips are to places like Vegas and Ruidoso, so I'll look into what there is to do and what I need to plan beforehand.

6. Do you travel as much as you wish you did? What is stopping you if not?

-No, I definitely wish I could travel more. The main thing stopping me is money because traveling can get expensive, especially when you start adding up all the different costs.

7. Would you use an app that gives you the most affordable flights, hotel, nearby restaurants, event tickets?

-Definitely. I would use an app like that because having everything in one place would make planning a trip easier. It would also be helpful if it could find affordable options and help me stay within my budget.

1. How often do you travel?

-I usually travel about once a year. I would like to travel more often, but it mostly depends on my schedule and finances.

2. What form of travel do you prefer?

-I prefer flying because it is faster and more convenient, especially when traveling somewhere that is far away.

3. What do you find difficult about traveling and the planning process of arranging a trip?

-Expense management is probably the most difficult part for me. There are a lot of different costs to think about, so I have to make sure everything fits within my budget.

4. What are some of the expenses that you have to take in mind during these travels?

-The main expenses I think about are flights, lodging, food, and miscellaneous expenses. I also try to leave some extra money for unexpected costs that might come up during the trip.

5. How much time do you spend researching before your trip? What sites are you visiting?

-I usually spend about a week researching and planning before my trip. I look into where I am staying, what I want to do, and how much everything is going to cost.

-I usually like visiting monuments and historical sites. I enjoy seeing places that have some history behind them and learning more about the area I am visiting.

6. Do you travel as much as you wish you did? What is stopping you if not?

-No, I would definitely like to travel more. Having a child and managing finances makes it harder to have the freedom to travel as frequently as I would like.

7. Would you use an app that gives you the most affordable flights, hotel, nearby restaurants, event tickets?

-Yes, I would. Having everything in one app would make planning easier, especially if it helped me compare prices and find affordable options for the entire trip.
